

SUN SHINES ON BOSWORTH...

Once again a Bosworth village event bagged one of the elusive days of fine weather! Where other events all around were cancelled, Bosworth Festival 2012 persevered and had a cracking day...

As with the Jubilee Day celebrations at the beginning of June, the good weather made Bosworth Festival another memorable event, exceeding all expectations and raising over £2,000 for local charities and good causes.

The event saw the welcome return of a vast array of military vehicles, classic cars and motorcycles, the Bernese mountain dogs, djembe drummers and hovercraft. Harborough FM radio provided the musical background during the day with Barry Badger taking the reins in the evening for the picnic on the lawn.

Thanks to the organising committee, especially John Clarke for his unstinting work drawing together the field events. The character of the event has, over the years, been very much defined by the venue and once again we thank Robert and Susan Constable-Maxwell for allowing the village to 'invade' their park and gardens for the day!

Following on the heels of last year's successful tour, a convoy of military vehicles again took a group to the Second World War air crash memorial sites in the Park to honour those who lost their lives in the two crashes.

Thanks to all the local groups that supported the event and to everyone who came along and enjoyed the day.

STOP PRESS: Nineteen local groups benefited from the event, sharing almost £2,000.

CLUED UP IN BOSWORTH

Followers of BBC Radio Leicester's Sunday morning Clueless treasure hunt programme will have pricked up their ears when the programme's presenters, Tony Wadsworth and Julie Mayer were directed to the village Millennium Wood community woodland recently. The programme centres on listeners working out a series of cryptic clues and calling into the radio station to direct the presenter to destinations around the county. The Millennium Wood clue was hidden on the dipping platform at the water's edge and, despite a brief foray looking for somewhere to 'dip' down Honeypot Lane the clue was eventually located and the crew was subsequently directed by listeners onwards.... to Gumley.

LIFE SAVER

Would you know what to do, and have the confidence to help, if someone suffered a life-threatening emergency?

In next month's Bugle we will be offering a chance for villagers to join a FREE first aid course, to be held in the village in September.

Look out for more details next month.

THE SID EFFECT

With more than 12 month's worth of data now gathered from the village's Speed Indicator Device a picture of results is beginning to emerge.

It is pleasing to note that the percentage of vehicles exceeding the speed limit at some sites has reduced markedly over the period. Welford Road in particular shows a 2% decrease in speeders.

POSTBAG

From John Sutherland, Market Harborough

I have a pocket watch which originated here in Market Harborough. The maker's name is marked both on the dial and on the rear of the movement "G.F Allen - Market Harborough" and it is dated 1898. With this information I hope to find evidence of its history and so I write to you with the hope that your readers may be able to shed some light on the watch's history or that of the maker.

From Peter Jones, Highcroft

Have you ever wondered how many people are buried in All Saints churchyard?

The population of Husbands Bosworth has, on average, been about 1000 souls over the past five hundred years, which translates roughly into three to four thousand deaths per century, plus a few more that died young. The church has been here since about 1300 and the churchyard was closed in 1856. That means that burials took place in the churchyard for around 550 years. Multiply the number of centuries that the churchyard was used (5.5), by the number of deaths per century (say, 3000) and you will see that there must be at least 16,500 people buried there!

Editor's Note: Perhaps this explains why the church sits on such high ground...

From a Curious Villager

A number of apparently abandoned bicycles have appeared around the village lately. All appear to be in reasonable condition and roadworthy but have been left for a long time in unusual places around the village. Does anyone have any ideas where they have come from? Or who they belong to?

OPEN AGAIN GARDEN

David and Ros Dunmore would like to say a big thank-you to everyone who came to their charity Open Garden at 14, Mowsley Road on behalf of the National Garden Scheme in June.

It was a fine, dry day and visitors were able to sit outside and enjoy tea and cakes and purchase plants for their own garden. The event raised £150 for care charities, including Macmillan Cancer Support, Marie Curie Cancer Care, Help the Hospices and the Queen's Nursing Institute.

An additional donation was made to Brook House Residential Care Home to support visits into the community by the residents.

David and Ros will be opening their garden for a second time on Sunday, August 5th from 11.00am until 5.00pm. They are hoping for another fine day... and lots of visitors!

MUSEUM PIECE

A recent study undertaken on behalf of Leicestershire Museums Service has concluded that Harborough Museum would benefit from being run independently. The museum is currently managed by a partnership of the county Museums Service, Leicestershire County Council, Harborough District Council and Market Harborough Historical Society. Under the proposed new scheme the museum, which houses the Symington corsetry collection and the Hallaton Hoard of Iron Age coins, would be run by a board of trustees as a not-for-profit venture. As an independent organisation the group could apply for charity status and would be able to seek outside funding and sponsorship.

The study also recommended moving the museum entrance to the front foyer and including a museum shop as part of Harborough's proposed redevelopment of the Adam and Eve Street complex.

BYGONE BOSWORTH

The Historical Society's Periodical Journal

The first mention of schooling in the village of Husbands Bosworth is found in the Church Survey Book of 1619, which states: "...a Chapel on the North side of the Church [All Saints], where a School is kept..."

At this time any education was haphazard and often depended on the curate, who would supplement his meagre stipend by teaching reading and writing. In 1707 the choir vestry was converted and used as a Church School. The open archways into the Church were blocked off and the only entrance was from outside. This arrangement lasted until at least 1820. [The old doorway, since blocked up, can still be seen on the south side of the church.]

At the end of July Market Harborough police, supported by the Automatic Number Plate Recognition (ANPR) team, carried out a two-day high profile policing initiative in the Market Harborough area.

During the initiative vehicle registrations were checked against local and national data-bases and any suspect vehicles were directed to roadside check sites. A team of officers checked the roadworthiness of the vehicles, checked driving documents and finally checked the vehicle or occupants for signs of any criminal activity.

During the two days a total of 141 vehicles were stopped

- Three incidents of separate males arrested after suspected stolen catalytic converters and car batteries were found in their vehicles
- One driver prosecuted for disqualified driving
- One person prosecuted for possession of cannabis
- One person prosecuted for carrying an offensive weapon
- Two vehicles seized for having no insurance and the drivers issued with £200 fines
- Six fixed penalties issued for expired MoTs or vehicle tax
- Ten vehicle defect notices issued
- Other intelligence was gained about suspect vehicles and people movement around the Market Harborough district
